GRANDDAUGHTER OF MRS. MACKAY IS BRIDE TO-DAY

Basket-Ball Team Run Princess Bianca Wedded in Paris to Count Jules de Bonvouloir.

> Princess Bianca Stigniano-Colonna, granddaughter of Mrs. John W. Mackay, and Count Jules de Bonvouloir were married by civil ceremony in Paris toplace to-morrow.

Princess Blanca was one of this spring's debutantes, and was presented at the English court by her grandmother, Mrs. Mackay, who is showering her wealth and affection on the fortunate young woman. The Princess's coming-out celebrations were marked with originality, the Cinderella fete being one of the features of the summe in English society.

The wedding to-day is of interest to society in New York, London and Paris.

The young woman when she first came to this city was a six-year-old child, one of the three children brought here by the Princess Colonna when she came here after being denied a separation in Paris in 1904. Later the Princess obtained a separation in Naples, the seat of the Prince's branch of the family.

Comment is marrying a title after Princess Colonna's marriage was held up at one time as a warning to American heiresses who marry European titles. Princess Colonna was Miss Eva Bryant, daughter of Mrs. Mackay by the first marriage. John W. Mackay settled $175.000 annually on his step-daughter at the time of her wedding to Prince Colonna in 1833.

Princess Blanca is said to be much like her mother in looks, dark-eyed, dark-haired, versed in many languages, witty and talented. She has ordered twenty gowns of rose pink as part of her trousseau. society in New York, London and Paris
